

Your right	What it means
The right of access	You can ask us for a copy of the personal information we hold. You can ask us how we collect, share and use your personal information.
The right to rectification	You can request that we correct any inaccurate or incomplete personal data we hold about you.
The right to erasure (the right to be forgotten)	You can ask us to delete your personal data in certain circumstances, including where: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • It is no longer necessary for us to process your personal data; • You consider the personal data is being unlawfully processed; • You withdraw your consent (where the processing is based on consent); • You object to the processing and there are no overriding legitimate grounds justifying the processing; or • The personal data have to be erased to comply with a legal obligation. We may refuse your request if the processing is necessary to comply with a legal obligation or for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims.
The right to restrict processing	You can ask us to halt the processing of your personal data in certain circumstances, including where: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • You contest the accuracy of your personal data; • You consider the processing is unlawful, but you do not want your personal data erased; • We no longer need the personal data but you require it for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims; or • You have objected to the processing, and verification as to our overriding legitimate interests is pending. We may continue to process your personal data: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Where we have your consent to do so; • For the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims; • The processing is necessary to protect the rights of other individuals or legal persons; or • For important public interest reasons.
The right to object	You can object to us processing your personal data on the basis of our legitimate interests (or those of a third party). We will stop such processing unless we can demonstrate compelling legitimate grounds for the processing which override your interests or the processing is necessary for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims.
The right to data portability (moving your information)	You can request us to transmit personal data that you have provided to us, to a third party without hindrance, or to give you a copy of it so that you can transmit it to a third party, where technically feasible. The right only applies where: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The processing is carried out by automated means; and • The processing is based on your consent or for the performance of a contract with you.
The right to complain	You can lodge a complaint with IPRT and/or with the Data Protection Commissioner if you consider that the processing of your personal data infringes the GDPR or other data protection legislation.